

Customer Notice - GDPR

The Supplier processes personal data of the Client's employees for the purposes of completing the pre-contractual measures and thereafter for managing the commercial relationship and communication with the Client. Such processing is justified by the legitimate interests pursued by the Supplier, as it is necessary for the proper performance of the contractual relationship with its clients. Data related to the Client's employees shall be retained for the duration of the relationship plus the applicable statutory periods. Such data are intended for the authorised employees of the Supplier and for any subcontractors on which the Supplier may possibly rely.

The Client's employees have a right of access, rectification, deletion or portability of their data, and a right to oppose the processing or to seek the limitation of the same, under the conditions and within the limits provided for by applicable regulations. In order to exercise the said rights, they may contact the Company at the following address: data-protection.bcm@fareva.com. They may file a complaint with the ICO. The Client must inform its employees accordingly.